

GSEV Newsletter – June 2025

GSEV Autumn Meeting 2025 – Essen • 25–26 September 2025

The annual meeting of the German Society for Extracellular Vesicles (GSEV) will take place this year in the Audimax of the University Hospital Essen. Expecting more than 200 participants, two days full of scientific sessions await you.

The sessions will span topics such as EV biogenesis, characterisation, and translational applications. Don't miss your chance to discuss your work with fellow EV scientists.

Keynote talks from international EV experts such as Elke Pogge von Strandmann, Rienk Nieuwland, Héctor Peinado, Carlos Salomon Gallo, and Amy Buck will be featured!

Deadline	Item

ISOBM 2025 – Murnau • 13–15 October 2025 (+ EV workshop 16 Oct)

Attention to everybody working on EVs in cancer and EVs as biomarkers! GSEV is extending its cooperation with the International Society of Oncology & Biomarkers (ISOBM) and will host its own session and workshop at the 47th annual ISOBM meeting in Murnau. GSEV members receive a €50 registration discount; request your code via info@gsev.org. Abstract submission is open until 30 June 2025. For full information, visit the conference site.

DGZ 50 Years Meeting – Heidelberg • 26–29 October 2025

The German Society for Cell Biology (DGZ) celebrates its jubilee this year under the motto “The Heart of Life Sciences – Past, Present and Future.” If you are interested to learn more about EV biology and the mechanisms of EV biogenesis and function, join the meeting and the DGZ focus group on “Membrane trafficking and EVs”. Early bird registration and abstract submission are possible until July 6 2025. Details and registration are available at zellbiologie.de

Call for SNEV Ambassador – Germany

GSEV, in partnership with the Student Network on Extracellular Vesicles (SNEV), invites applications for the position of German Junior Representative. Eligible candidates are current GSEV members who are doctoral candidates or within five years of their doctorate, committed to active participation in SNEV activities and virtual meetings. Please submit a brief motivation letter (max. ½ page) outlining your interest and availability. The call is open until 15 July 2025; applications and questions to info@gsev.org.

Call for GSEV Paper Award 2025

GSEV invites applications for its 2025 Paper Award, created to spotlight pioneering original research on extracellular vesicles. The laureate will receive €300, be profiled across all GSEV channels, and have the study highlighted at future meetings. Eligibility is limited to GSEV members who are first authors of an original research article accepted and published online before 30 June 2025, and who are within three years post-PhD or five years post-approbation (parental leave of up to eighteen months counts toward the limit). To apply, email a PDF of the publication, a 150-word elevator pitch, and written consent for public announcement to publications@gsev.org by 15 July 2025. The GSEV Board and appointed reviewers will assess submissions on both the applicant's contribution and the scientific quality of the work. publications@gsev.org.

EVCNA Journal Partnership

Extracellular Vesicle and Circulating Nucleic Acids (EVCNA) has earned its inaugural Journal Impact Factor of 4.8 in the 2024 Journal Citation Reports (Clarivate). Under the EVCNA–GSEV partnership, GSEV members receive a 20 percent reduction in the article processing charge for submissions to the journal. For more information, follow the EVCNA instructions.
